Supplementary Figure S1 Cost-effectiveness analysis. Reduced FSH group compared to standard FSH group. In this plane each point represents the uncertainty of the additional costs and effects (measured as live birth) of reduced as compared with standard FSH dosing after bootstrap resampling. The majority of the points being in the left side of the panel and more specifically in the left lower quadrant indicates that reduced FSH dosing was less effective and slightly less expensive than standard dosing. LB, live birth.